

THE QUIET HOURS — Visual Canon (cast faces / reference)

Locked 2026-06-19 with the author. The reference faces for the two leads, split by state, with the load-bearing trait and the guard that travels with each. Use as the anchor for any image generation, cover, or casting reference. Photo refs set eye-and-energy, not page-heritage — both leads stay Korean on the page (see heritage note).

The spine of both: the eyes. Hers green-to-gold, his storm-grey — held constant across every state. That constancy is the recognition motif. Get the eyes wrong and it isn't them; get the eyes right and the rest is wardrobe.

JAE — Yun Jae-wu (윤재우) // born Baek Sori (백소리, secret)

Load-bearing trait — the eyes. Central heterochromia: green irises turning warm gold toward the pupil, the gold ringed so cleanly it looks deliberate — “like sun through a leaf.” Secretly the Baek bloodline trait; the half-sister lacks the full version, so Jae's eyes are the DNA proof at the reveal. This is the one fixed physical fact. Push the gold into the center on every render.

Heritage note. Jae is Korean to the bone — the Baek line, the idol-and-heir world, the whole back-half reveal architecture is wired to it. The reference photos set her eyes and energy; the page keeps her Korean. No ripple to the reveal.

Default Jae — the slow-burn face (ref: IMG_3619)

- Dark hair with a little wave, bare face, faint tiredness under the eyes — “tired past what a shift does and into what a life does.”
- Plain grey hoodie / worn tee. No glamour, no audience. Ordinary daylight.
- The stare is the thing: level, direct, unselling — reads you clean through and wants nothing back. Calm, faintly guarded, deadpan.
- This is her 90% of the book.

Act-3 Jae — public debut, out with her idol husband (ref: IMG_3621)

- Late-arc unlock only. Earned after the wall's down and she's claimed in the open.

Not an everyday look — it lands because of twenty-some chapters in the hoodie.

- Understated expensive evening dress (old-money restraint, not flash), restrained deep-red lip, dark hair soft-styled, gala light behind her.
 - GUARD — she keeps her stare. Composed, level, unselling, in command of being looked at: glamour she chose, worn like armor she picked herself. Never sultry, never posing, never the camera owning her — that's the line between her and Yuna (whose glamour is the mask). Pull the expression toward Default-Jae's composure.

DO-YUN — Kang Do-yun (강도윤) // idol "Seungwoo" (승우) // alias "Doha"

Load-bearing trait — the eyes. Storm-grey, no bottom to them. The one thing he can't dye out — survives every disguise. Constant across both states below; that's the whole point.

Build. Lean idol — the "soft man" Jae clocks, the visual/main vocal. Not bodybuilder/gym-bro. Keep him lean.

Tells (not always visible in stills). Fingers drum when dysregulated, still when regulated. Split right knuckles — a white ridge across them, from the party.

Seungwoo — the idol / public face (ref: IMG_3454)

- Ash-silver hair — a maison/colourist salon job (strip-and-tone, a paper trail). The billboards, the comeback look, the public-facing product.
- Also correct for the origin night (three years ago, pre-hiding — convenience store, the rain, the comped coffee) and the 7 a.m. re-silver on engagement day (the machine reclaiming him).
- Register: the looked-at life, the trained smile, charm as performance.

Doha — the man in hiding / the roommate (ref: IMG_3453)

- Self-box-dyed black — DIY over Jae's sink at midnight (Ch4), because a salon is a paper trail and a stylist is "a mouth with legs." This is the alias she knows; the man in the box room is black-haired.
- GUARD — the dye is amateur, and that's a plot point. Patchy at the temples, a thread of grey left at the crown where his own hand couldn't reach — "a man who let his cousin do it in a garage." Ahn clocks it as amateur on sight. The locked ref (IMG_3453) is salon-clean black; future renders should grow it out, rough it up, leave the grey crown. Don't clean up the bad dye — it's canon.

- Plain, off-grid, tired; the storm-grey eyes held through the black.

QUICK REGEN SEEDS

(Keep the eye line verbatim each time — it's the load-bearing one.)

- Default Jae: Korean woman, mid-20s, photoreal candid 35mm; central heterochromia, green irises turning gold toward the pupil like sun through a leaf; level direct unselling gaze, calm, guarded, not smiling; dark wavy hair, bare face, faint under-eye shadows; plain grey hoodie; soft daylight, no glamour.
 - Act-3 Jae: as above, formal evening event; understated dark gown, restrained red lip, soft-styled hair, warm gala bokeh; composed and self-possessed, NOT sultry, not posing — armor she chose. Avoid: pin-up pose, leering camera, vacant model stare.
 - Seungwoo: Korean man, 26, lean idol; storm-grey eyes with no bottom; ash-silver salon hair; black tailored suit; the looked-at life / paparazzi / trained smile.
 - Doha: as above but amateur self-box-dyed black hair, patchy at temples, grey thread at the crown; storm-grey eyes held through the dye; plain clothes, tired, off-grid, ordinary room. Avoid: clean salon dye, gym-bro build.
